PROJECTS

Magical Realism in Chitra Banerjee Divakaruni's "Mistress of Spices"

[2020 April]

- The project was a team effort with effective communication and collaboration and clearly delineated roles and responsibilities.
- Roles were assigned based on each team member's strengths and expertise.
- For the secondary source, various scholarly articles, books, and critical essays were annotated.
- The text was literarily analyzed through several processes to gain a comprehensive understanding of its context, themes, and interpretations. The MLA-style research method was implemented. SEO principles were utilized to prioritize certain reputable sources.
- The work unfurls the myth and culture of a diasporic Indian character.
- It explicates the contrast between the mystical and the realistic worlds.

Freedom of Choice: A Study of John Steinbeck's "East of Eden"

[2022 May]

- Depending on the text, relevant literary theories were scrutinized that provided insightful frameworks for analyzing it.
- While engaging with secondary sources, meticulous notes and sources were documented.
- Several SEO concepts were used while researching the text with articles, scholarly papers, and discussions related to the topics.
- It emphasized the importance of backlinks and citations to establish credibility for the work.
- Content strategies enhanced my ability to produce high-quality content, and they also intensified my writing style.
- The work dramatizes the perpetual conflict between the characters and showcases the power of choice.
- The narrative technique is used to detail the rivalry between the two generations.
